Did I ever tell you how I lost my job?

- By Daegan Smith

I think the story will be insightful.

There I was ...

Minding my business and I get a call on my phone.

Not a number I recognized, but ...

I picked it up anyways.

It was the CEO of the company I was working for with a message.

(I thought it was strange that the CEO was calling me out of the blue, it hadn't happened before so I had a sinking feeling "something" was up.)

In a five minute conversation ...

I was told the company was downsizing and that I had two choices.

One - to work for minimum wage

Or ...

Two - Leave with one months severance pay.

He called halfway into the month and said these changes were taking place the beginning of next month.

So much for company loyalty ...

I had worked there for 3 years and that's the notice I was given.

That's the reality of the world in which we all live.

Sink or swim.

Now luckily for me, and little known to him ...

I had an internet business running on the side that was doing about $20,000 a month at that point so I didn't sweat it much.

Here's how I originally built it:

But that's how it went down.

Truth is ...

Security in the J.O.B. world, is nothing more than a devastating illusion.

The only real security you really have in life your life ...

Is finding opportunity, seeing it for what it is, and going after it with all you got.

I see no greater opportunity in this world than the merging of the internet and network marketing.

How else can I guy make $20,000 per month on the side, working a few hours a day undetected?

Get started now no matter what position

you might be in.

The truth is ...

Your future depends on it.

To the top,
